Funny Bone ~ “One Plus One”

One day a teacher was explaining the mathematical equation, one plus one equals two. In front of the class, she had one apple sitting on her desk. When she added the second apple to her desk, the class yelled out the answer “two”.

One of her students was perplexed. He simply didn't understand. He raised his hand. When the teacher called upon him, she was not prepared for his baffling question.

The student looked at her and shrugged his shoulders. “I don't understand teacher. I can see how you add the apples together on your desk and they become two apples. But when I add one wad of chewed gum to another wad of chewed gum, I still only have one piece of gum. How can it be a different answer?”, he said.

The teacher was now the one perplexed. After thinking for a moment, she shook her head in disbelief. Never had she been stumped by this simple equation. She looked at her student, high fived him and proudly awarded him an “A” for such creativity and imagination.

The moral of the story:

Life can throw you some curve-balls but how you react to them makes all the difference in the world.

Ah, The Adventures In Life

Caves have been explored throughout history. They have been used for various reasons such as shelter, burial, climate research, religious sites or just for the pure enjoyment of exploration.

Many caves have been converted into “show” caves for the less adventurous types where lighting, floors and other aids allow the casual tourist to experience the thrills with minimal inconvenience.

If you ever get the adventurous urge and want to trek through some incredible sites, these could be just what you are looking for:

Got Foggy Headlights?

Did you know that foggy headlights not only impacts your vehicle's beauty but is also a safety hazard?

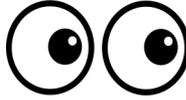

Headlights play a vital role in your daily travel. Over time, the sun's ultraviolet rays and other factors can give your headlights a dull, foggy, hazy or yellowish look.

Foggy headlights significantly reduce the amount of light beaming from the headlights and reduces the light's focus on the road ahead. Another key aspect of foggy headlights is that many vehicles fail safety inspections if your headlights are beyond a certain point of clarity.

There are different methods to restore your headlights to their original shine. With so many DIY products available to choose from, it can be a daunting task to determine what is your best course of action. What you need to be careful of is just masking the problem temporarily versus getting a permanent fix to the overall problem. What you will find is that most DIY products are basically a lotion. They make everything shine for a day, but tomorrow you may have to apply some more.

Dealers and repair shops offer an affordable headlight restoration option. Even though they may differ in their techniques, they usually start with a fine-grain sandpaper to remove a thin layer of the headlight's cover plastic. Then they can polish and protect the surface with a UV protection sealant that will have a lasting effect.

TIP: Don't let another day go by without restoring your headlights.

After the restoration, you will be amazed at the difference and wonder how in the world you could ever see driving in the dark before.

Cauliflower Hashbrown Egg Cups

Ingredients:

2 heads of cauliflower, steamed	2 c. shredded Cheddar cheese
1 dozen + 2 large eggs	1 tsp. garlic powder
1 tsp. garlic powder	1 tsp. salt
Fresh ground pepper to taste	Chives, chopped (optional)

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 375° F. Lightly grease a 12-cup muffin tin and set aside.
2. Drop the steamed cauliflower into the bowl of a food processor and pulse until they start to resemble a fine grain. Pour the ground cauliflower onto paper towels and twist to wring out excess liquid. Do this up to three times until the cauliflower comes out completely dry.
3. Transfer dry cauliflower to a large mixing bowl. Add cheddar cheese, garlic powder, salt and two eggs and stir to combine.
4. Distribute the mixture evenly throughout the muffin tins and use your fingers to press the mixture into the sides and bottom of each cup to form the nests. Bake the nests for 15-17 minutes until brown.
5. Add a couple bits of bacon to the bottom of each cup and crack an egg on top, without breaking the yolk. Bake for 7-8 minutes.
6. Sprinkle with chives and pepper to taste. Enjoy!

Who's The Flincher?

In The Know ~ Sun Protection

1. The best sunscreen is the one you'll actually use on a regular basis. You'll feel like you're dating lots of sunscreens until you find the one you fall in love with. (Remember...this is a long-term relationship to prevent wrinkles, dark spots and skin cancer.) So make sure you choose one that you'll use all the time.
2. Make sure your sunscreen provides at least SPF 30. Beyond that, have fun experimenting with different lotions, sprays, oils, powders, serums and wipes until you meet your match that fits within your lifestyle and skin texture.
3. Ladies...don't worry about SPF in your makeup. More sunscreen is never a bad thing and will only enhance the protection. Usually, makeup products only have a small amount of SPF and you'd have to put on 7-10 layers in order to reach SPF 30.
4. Reapply sunscreen regularly. After 2 hours, the first layer of sunscreen is worthless. This tip isn't just for you beach goers...a majority of skin aging comes from everyday exposure. So keep some handy and enjoy the outdoors.

Seeing The Positive Side

With so many things happening in your daily grind, it's easy to fall prey to negative thinking. One small negative thought can easily escalate into a huge, speeding bullet of ugliness. On the contrary, one small positive thought has the potential of blooming into a beautiful outcome. While Positive Thinking Day is celebrated this month, it's a great time to retrain the mind and de-stress from your daily grind. Here are just a few easy ideas to get you started:

1. Smile. No matter what comes your way and even if you have to fake it to make it, smiling is one of the easiest and most contagious ways of transforming your day.
2. Stop, Sit and Breathe. When your thoughts are running in numerous directions, the quickest way to ease your mind is to relax a moment. Concentrate on your breathing and just relax. It doesn't have to take long. Just take a quick moment to focus and you'll be on all set for the next thing that comes your way.
3. Help someone. By taking the focus away from yourself while doing something nice for someone, it really has a way of getting your mind off your "things" and make both of you feel better.

Make a conscience effort of being positive today. By doing so, you'll open yourself up to better solutions, creating a contagious "happy" environment and ready to face any challenge that comes your way. ☺
